

Special Issue of Proceedings of the Indian National Science Academy (PINSA) by Indian National Young Academy of Sciences (INyas)

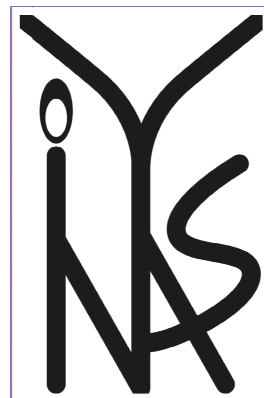

Call for Manuscripts

The Indian National Young Academy of Sciences (INyas) founded in 2015 is an academy of talented and vibrant young scientists, functioning under the tutelage of Indian National Science Academy (INSA), New Delhi. INyas is the first such young academy in India and is inspired by the Global Young Academy (GYA). The Vision of INyas is to i) attract the youth towards science, ii) disseminate the excitement of science at pre-college and university levels, and iii) establish a network of young scientists in India.

Considering the overwhelming response to the previous special issues, INyas proposes a new special issue of PINSA (4th Special Issue) to provide a platform to the young Indian researchers to showcase their work. The call invites young scientists (below 45 years of age) to contribute to this special issue by submitting original research articles, reviews, mini-reviews, perspectives or commentary on contemporary topics in all areas of science (Physical and Chemical sciences / Biological Sciences / Applied Science / Earth and Atmospheric sciences /any areas of interdisciplinary Science), Engineering and Technology.
